Contents

About the Authors x
Preface xi
Table of Cases xv
Table of Statutes xix

PART 1: The Law of the Colonisers 1

Chapter 1: Dispossession and Colonisation 3
   Introduction 3
   Dispossession post-Mabo 5
   The legal process of dispossession 6
   Context of colonisation 7
   Contested sovereignty 8
   The rule of law 9
   ‘Quietening’ the frontier 10
   Dispossession by law 12
   Pluralism revisited in the twentieth century 17

Chapter 2: Warfare to Welfare: Genocide to Racial Discrimination 20
   The protection era 21
   A national system of protection and the intensification of control 24
   Assimilation and integration 27
   Genocide in Australia 39
   Conclusion 42

Chapter 3: Reparation and Redress 43
   Justifications for reparation and compensation 44
   Developing international law principles on reparation 46
The apology to the Stolen Generations 48
Redress through litigation: Stolen Generations 50
Limitations of litigation 54
Successful litigation: Trevorrow 57
Compensation and redress through a Tribunal: a Stolen Generations Reparations Tribunal 59
Conclusion 64

Chapter 4: Contemporary Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Children's Welfare

Introduction 65
What needs to be addressed? 66
Systemic inequality 68
A human rights approach to Indigenous children’s well-being 71
Bringing Them Home 74
Australian child welfare legislation 77
Commonwealth intervention in the Northern Territory 81
Conclusion 86

PART 2: Equal before the Law: Criminalisation

Chapter 5: Juvenile Justice

Introduction 91
The extent of contact with juvenile justice agencies 94
Police decision-making and Indigenous youth 96
Curfews, parental responsibility and removal of young people from public places 97
Stop and search powers 99
Warnings and cautioning 99
Arrest or court attendance notice 101
Bail and remand 102
Youth justice conferencing 104
Human rights principles and juvenile diversion 108
Aboriginal elders and diversionary programs 109
Juvenile justice reform 110
Conclusion 112

Chapter 6: Criminalisation and Policing in Indigenous Communities

Introduction 114
The Royal Commission into Aboriginal Deaths in Custody 115
Part 3: Law, Land and Culture

Chapter 8: Land Rights

The meaning of land for Aboriginal people
Historical struggle for land rights
The Northern Territory
The New South Wales Aboriginal Land Rights Act
Land rights and native title
The fight for land justice continues
Chapter 9: Native Title

- Introduction 188
- Mabo (No 2): The findings and its impact 189
- The Native Title Act 192
- The 1998 amendments to the Native Title Act 194
- Common law developments post-Mabo (No 2) 195
- Pastoral leases 195
- Freehold title 197
- Sea rights 198
- The nature of native title and extinguishment 199
- Proof of traditional law and customs 201
- Conclusion 203

Chapter 10: Protecting Culture

Robynne Quiggin

- Introduction 207
- What is Indigenous cultural heritage? 209
- Regulation of cultural heritage 212
- Repatriation 220
- Knowledge, language and expressions of Indigenous cultural heritage 222
- Protocols 232
- International work 232
- Conclusion 234
- Appendix 235

PART 4: Law, Rights and Governance

Chapter 11: Racial Discrimination and the Law

- Race and ideas about race thinking 239
- CERD 240
- Race discrimination legislation 244
- Human rights and fundamental freedoms 245
- Racist motivation 246
- Equality before the law 248
- Special measures 249
- Racial vilification 250
- The effectiveness of the RDA for Indigenous peoples 253
- Conclusion 255
Chapter 12: Constitutional Change: Strengthening Rights Protection
The values of our founding fathers 257
1967 referendum 259
The legacy of the silences in the Constitution 264
The continual agenda for constitutional change 265
Unfinished constitutional business 272

Chapter 13: Indigenous Governance: Amending the Mainstream 275
The attempt to give governance an institutional form 276
The establishment of ATSIC 278
The demise of ATSIC 281
The post-ATSIC environment 283
The desire for regional representation 285
Self-governance and corporate governance 288
A new representative body? 292
Conclusion 294

Chapter 14: A New Order: Self-Determination 295
Indigenous people and international law 296
The principle of self-determination under international law 298
Indigenous people within the United Nations framework 301
The influence of international law on Australian law 310
Indigenous people and the right to self-determination in Australia 311

Chapter 15: Unfinished Business 315
The decade of reconciliation and the Council for Aboriginal Reconciliation 316
The Social Justice Commissioner 318
The social justice package 318
The recommendations of the Reconciliation Council 323
The re-emergence of the issue of a treaty 327
A new era for reconciliation? 332

Bibliography 334
Index 359